GEN. L. P. WATT HARDIN has the sympathy of his many Madison friends in the sudden and overwhelming sorrow which his wife's death has occasioned him.

The spirit of harmony in Democratic ranks is prevailing all over the country. This is not brought about by compromise, but by the prodigals returning home.

TOM REED, the "Great White Bear," seeing that the McKinley administration is doomed to failure, and with an eye toward the nomination, is vigorously disclaiming any responsibility in connection with it.

We are grateful to the Financial Review for a kind offer to furnish editorial free. Respectfully referred to the Panthograph. Such editorials as the Review prints could not be inserted in the CLIMAX at any price.

It is said that Mr. Davidson says his candidacy for re-election will depend entirely on his health. That settles it. It will be too bad for him to run, especially if he is. Mr. Davidson is named by the Democrats. The boss isn't any fool. He always knows when he's "got no."—Stanford Journal.

CONGRESS assembled on Monday at noon. Some people say it is Reed's Manager. Anyhow the money business has begun. McKinley faces a big deficit of his own party's creation, a discredited and disappointed people, and a changed political condition, all of which will keep the President in a stew for upwards of a long time.

THOROUGHbred horses, with choice pedigree behind them, were given away, sold for $1, $2, $3, $10, $20, and $30, at the Lexington horse sales last week. And yet, with the lowest figures ever known for horse-flesh reached the top-most wave of gold-standard McKinley. International-bimetallism boom has not yet been attained. Hurrah for the gold standard, that gives black-eyes and opens eyes with the same lick!—Glasgow Times.

THE Hartford Democrat asks three prominent papers in this section some questions which "are not propounded for the purpose of unfriendly criticism but to acquire information, and to enable us to be placed in possession of a logical theory of political responsibility with which we are as yet entirely unfamiliar." Which translated means: "Can I be a Democrat and yet refuse to submit to the will of the majority?"

EMMETT LUGAN, of the Louisville Times, can always be relied on to say the right thing in the right way at the most opportune time. Of Mr. Tyler's manifesto he says: "There is no particular objection to the National Democratic army of generals keeping up its organization in Kentucky and elsewhere, but that good it can hope to accomplish, without at least a few privates in the ranks, is one of those things that nobody can find out."—Stanford Journal.

SENATOR WHITE, of California, summarizes his objections to Hawaiian annexation in this terse fashion: "The islands are useless for defenseless purposes, valueless from an economic view, will contribute nothing to national morals or wealth and will add an undesirable element to the already sufficiently burdened population. The islands are hostile to the treaty, and annexation involves a disregard of their rights. We are offered a barren title only."

And yet the evidences multiply that President McKinley will lend the whole power of his administration to secure the consummation of this scandalous job.

LEXINGTON, KY.

McKINLEY's message, to quote Mark Hanna, is a statesmanlike document. As he is the judge we refrain from comment, except to say that there is one portion of it, touching on Civil Service, which very few Republicans will swallow even with Hanna's sugar coating.

THE Lansing (Mich.) Journal, which was one of the ablest newspapers in the gold-bug menagerie, has repeated the prodigious act. In returning to the Democratic party it pledges itself to support the party platform and party leaders in future. Some individual ought to direct the attention of the few Kentucky gold bugs to this speedy method of securing that blessed "harmony" in the Democratic party for which the Kentucky organs of the political orphans are howling.

THE New York Sun, which quotes from Democratic papers only to ridicule and belittle their principles, copied the CLIMAX editorial upon Wm. Jennings Bryan's late visit to Louisville wherein we termed him the "incarnation of human rights, the most attractive personage on the globe." However, it lets us down easy, only drawing the inference that reports are false which have been circulated to the effect that Bryan is less popular in Kentucky than before his visit.

THE Eighth Congressional District of which Mercer is about one-half part, extends from Spencer to Jacksboro, and is, probably, the narrowest and longest in this State. It is quite likely that the next Legislature that meets, the first Monday in January, will gerrymander the entire State or make, at least, some changes. If Jackson should be left out of this district and Casey (300 Republican majority) put in, then the contest for the Democratic nomination, would, no doubt, be a battle royal.

WHILE the Legislature is looking about for something to do this winter, we would call attention to the great need of a Pure Food Commission. This is especially needed at this time, as Kentucky is being overrun with "cheap John" concerns that are selling the most villainous stuff for the pure article. Impure food has been shown to be the source of much sickness, and the protection of the people in this particular is one of the things the Legislature should give prompt attention to.—Carlsberg Mercury.

THE Illinois Supreme Court has increased the requirements for admission to the bar to such an extent that it is now somewhat more difficult to be admitted to practice than it is to walk through an open door.

The standard of admission to the bar in Kentucky is still uniformly low, as is also the moral code. Examples of brilliant young barristers robbing their grandmothers to get fees, while not numerous in Kentucky, are sufficiently notorious to debar the guilty ones from practice, should they ever have any.

At the election for county officers in Nebraska in 1895 out of 639 officers elected 339 were Republicans and 300 were Democrats. At the election for county officers in 1897 out of the 667 officers elected 261 were Republicans, while 406 were Democrats.

This shows that at the election of 1897 the Republicans lost seventy-five county officers, while the Democrats gained 103 over the number chosen in 1895. In fifteen counties the Republicans gained twenty-eight officers which they had not secured in 1895, while in forty-two counties the Democrats gained the net gain for the bimetallics seventy-five county officers at the election of 1897 to-day the bimetallics control two-thirds of the county offices of the state. And in this rockribbed Republican Nebraska—the home of the next President!

THE elections in 1898 will be more general and of far greater importance than those of this year. The campaign will be on the grand skirmish line for the Presidential election two years later.

In addition to the choice of a new House of Representatives and of Legislatures in several of the States that will elect Senators, the following States will elect Governors: Alabama, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Georgia, Idaho, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Vermont, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

These contests will be national in character, covering, as they will, every part of the Union.

Henry Watterson, brilliant erratic, gifted journalist, has set an example to his gold standard Democratic friends that they will find worthy of imitation. Says Columbia (Mo.) Herald: He has returned to the Democratic party and will hereafter interpose no factious opposition to the policies and principles to which the Democracy stands committed. He is a Democrat, he says, and not a Republican, and will give neither aid and comfort to McKinleyism.

The Missouri gold Democrats should read and heed Mr. Watterson's message. As long as they occupy their position of antagonism to the Democracy they play into the hand of the Republicans. They ought, by this time, to have become convinced of this fact. As far as his separate organization has any effect it is to foster Hannaism, trust legislation, protective tariff, and all the kindred evils upon the people. They will become full-fledged Republicans or get back into the Democratic party. Surely they are not yet ready to go over and bag and baggage into the McKinley camp. Let them come home.

It is a singular fact that six of the wealthiest and most prominent business men of St. Louis served as jurors in the United States district court last week. Most deserving of comment is the fact, not that these gentlemen served in this capacity, but that this service should be thought worthy of special notice. Says the Columbia (Mo.) Herald:

These persons are citizens of the United States. Their wealth and prominence have been made possible by virtue of laws of this country. Except for a wise and just government they would not have the benefits of the position and property they enjoy. They are willing enough to take advantage of these benefits; they should be willing to bear the burden.

One of the saddest and most dangerous signs of the times is that presented by the business men and scholars of our country in their attitude toward the burdens of government.

Wherever possible they stand aloof from party service. They take no part in politics except as a commercial endorsement. They dodge taxes. They evade jury service. They count themselves too busy to participate in the duties of citizenship. The result is not only to increase their own selfishness but to give governmental affairs too often into the hands of the vicious and corrupt.

It is well that such men are occasionally drawn into jury service. It may help to make them patriots instead of parasites.

INTERESTING ITEMS ABOUT ATLANTA.

Mr. Ed. C. Walton, Business Manager of the Interior Journal, has an interesting column of news about Atlanta from which we glean the following:

There is a man in Atlanta who is the president of 24 banks. All of them are good ones too, as the test of a few years ago proved. He didn't have a failure, while institutions of the same kind were closing doors almost daily.

One of the big institutions of Atlanta is the immense sanitarium which has recently been built by Dr. Simp. Elkin, formerly of Lancaster, and Dr. Cooper, another of Georgia's eminent doctors. There must be 100 or more rooms in the building and the promoters seem to be doing nicely.

Georgia's governor and West Virginia's have the same name—Govs. Atkinson. Unfortunately they both have wives who may be the prides of their husbands, but certainly it is that they are not much thought of in social circles. The West Virginia governor's wife was indicted for fornication, while Georgia's better half is a kleptomaniac of the worst sort.

The exposition buildings are being allowed to ruin, no care, whatever, being taken to keep them in repair. The gate to the grounds is not even kept locked and it is a wonder that fire has not played its part. The place is very popular during the summer months, but it presents a deserted appearance just now.

Editor Blackburn, of the Commercial, is going to make a hot race for Congress with the Lynch law as his sole platform. There are many who think he will be elected.

MAYOR COVINGTON WINS.

Judge Thos. J. Scott Decided New Point of Law.

MUNICIPAL OFFICERS EVERYWHERE INTERESTED.

MADISON CIRCUIT COURT.

CLAUDE SMITH, — Plaintiff.
T. T. Covington, — Defendant.

This is a controversy between the plaintiff and defendant as to the time when the term of office of Plaintiff Smith, duly and legally elected Mayor in November, 1897, will begin, and the time when the term of office of Defendant T. T. Covington, the present qualified and acting Mayor of the city of Richmond, Ky., will end.

The facts as set out in the agreed statement, so far as they are material to this controversy, are, that the city of Richmond is a city of the 4th class; and that by an ordinance of date August 1, 1893, the office of Mayor was made elective by the qualified voters thereof; and that the defendant, Covington, was duly elected Mayor at the November election, 1893, but that being unable by reason of sickness, did not qualify and enter upon the discharge of his duties as Mayor until March 11, 1894, and has held that office up to the present time; that the plaintiff, Smith, was duly and regularly elected Mayor at the regular election in November, 1897.

Plaintiff Smith claims that his term of office begins the 1st Monday in December, 1897; the defendant claims that his term of office does not expire until the 1st Monday in January, 1898. This is the gist of the controversy.

The Legislature undoubtedly has the right to provide by general law when the terms of municipal officers shall begin and end. Section 3550, Chapter 38, of the Kentucky Statutes, declares that "the terms of office of the members of the Common Council shall begin the 1st Monday in December after their election; all other officers, whether elected or appointed, shall begin their respective terms on the 1st Monday in January following."

If appointed, said officers shall be appointed by the Board of Council elected at the preceding November election.

Now it is disputable that the members of the Board of Council elected at the November election in 1897, do not begin their term of office, or enter upon the discharge of their duties, until the 1st Monday in December after the election.

If the old Board had passed an Ordinance, as they had a right to do, within the time prescribed by law prior to the November election, declaring that the successor of Mayor Covington should be appointed by the Board of Common Council, it could have only been done by the Board elected in November, 1897, and the terms of office of the members of that Board do not begin until the 1st Monday in December, 1897; consequently it would be impossible for the Mayor if appointed to enter upon his term of office at the same time as members of the Council.

Now, whether the Mayor was elected or appointed, his term of office must begin at the same time and continue four years; since it is impossible for the Mayor who is appointed on the 1st Monday in December to enter upon the term of his office at the same time with the same Board of Council, who are to appoint him, the conclusion is irresistible that the Legislature did not intend that the phrase "Board of Common Council" in Section 3550 of the General Statutes, should include the Mayor, but that the provision that all other officers whether elected or appointed, shall begin their respective terms on the 1st Monday in January following, includes the Mayor and applies to his office.

We therefore conclude, and it is so adjudged that Mayor Covington's term of office does not expire until the 1st Monday in January, 1898, and the term of office of Mayor Smith, does not begin until the first Monday in January, 1898.

In the meantime, it is the right and duty of Mayor Covington to preside over the meetings of the Council, to decide all points of order, (but he shall decide only in case of tie) and perform all the other functions of Mayor as prescribed by law.

Was Growing Worse

Liver and Stomach Troubles—Too Weak to Work—Now Able to Do All Her Housework.

"I was under the care of a physician for two years and he was treating me for stomach and liver troubles and female difficulties, but I only grew worse under his treatment. I was so weak I could do hardly any work. I was at last induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla and Hood's Pills and these medicines have done me much good. I am now able to do all my housework. I firmly believe I should have been in my grave today if it had not been for Hood's Sarsaparilla. My little girl was afflicted with the same. I gave her Hood's Sarsaparilla and it has relieved her."

Miss Theodora Leavelle, of this city, and Mr. M. C. Mayes, of Washington county, are to be married at the home of Mr. J. B. Leavelle, in Garrard, in February next. The groom is an excellent young man, said to be worthy of the young lady who possesses in a high degree the characteristics of a true womanly woman.

Miss Alene Jackson, of Richmond, is the guest of Mrs. J. E. Stormes.—Mrs. Mary Chenault, of Kansas, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Hudson.—Misses Alberta Anderson, Louise Kaufman and Van Greenleaf, returned to Richmond, and Maggie Tomlinson, to Danville, after having spent Thanksgiving with the home folks.—Lancaster Record.

Miss Irvine, who has been matron of Memorial Hall for a year or so, returned Monday night to Milton, N. C., to attend her mother in her feeble health. She will not return, much to the regret of her many friends. If Mrs. E. T. Jackson's health would only permit she would be exactly the one to take charge of the hall. When her health failed three years ago and she was compelled to retire from the control of the hall, it was sincerely hoped that she would be able to resume again, as she has by far the best matron the hall has ever had.

Miss Nannie Willis, the popular daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Willis surprised her friends on Sunday by announcing that she was to be married to-day, Wednesday, at 2:30 o'clock to Mr. Daniel Dejanette, of Bowling Green, Va. The ceremony will be quiet, performed by Rev. W. R. Lloyd, after which the couple will leave for the home of the groom. The bride is distantly related to Mr. Dejanette, and will be the mistress of the ancestral home which has been for more than a century in the Dejanette family. It is a palatial mansion of twenty-seven rooms on a 700-acre place. In all Virginia there are few handsomer homes.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one cured disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and restoring nature in doing its work.
